

Linux/Open Source Development and Support

Open source software is always free and open to new development providing the opportunity for anyone that is interested to work on it, at any time. This new approach to software creation encourages divergent thinking and creativity. We use open source solutions to provide our clients with feature rich websites and software quickly and without great expense. The ongoing development of open source software guarantees our clients' websites can be updated with minimal future costs. We also provide completely custom solutions.

We work with a qualified team of specialist in technology based on linux and open source. Advantages of open source shows results in solutions.

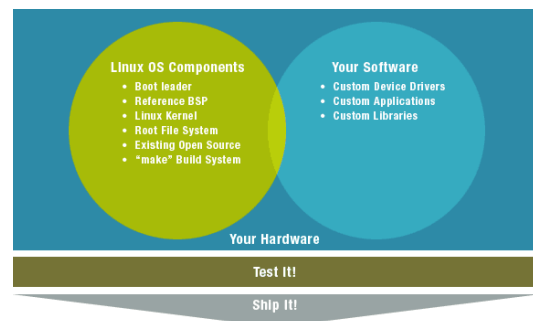

A variety of technologies based on open source allow us to make migration and implementation in your company in lifetime, from analysis of factibility to implementation and testing.
